Just because they protest doesn't mean they're right

Councillor defends his decision to vote in favour of waste plant

THE chairman of Harlow Council this week defended his decision to support controversial proposals for a new waste transfer station in the town.

Michael Garnett, who cast his vote in support of the development at Templefields in his role as county councillor for Harlow North, rejected constituents' concerns over noise, pollution, vermin and traffic and went against the recommendations of his own council.

He was one of six councillors to support the application at a meeting of Essex County Council's development and regulation committee meeting on September 23, meaning the vote was split and the final decision had to be made using the committee chairman's casting vote.

This week Councillor Garnett defended his actions, saying that he made his decision based purely on the strength of the proposal.

"As a county councillor and as part of my commitment to the development of the area I had to look at the proposal purely on planning grounds, not as the chairman of Harlow Council," he told the Star.

"We reviewed the whole application and took the best part of an hour-and-a-half to make our decision. But by the end of the meeting I didn't believe there were enough planning reasons to turn it down and felt I had to vote for what was in the best interests of Essex."

Hundreds of residents and business owners protested against the scheme, Harlow Council advised against the project and town MP Rob Halfon spoke out against the proposals at the ECC meeting. However, Cllr Garnett maintains he made the right decision.

"People are always going to protest against something and people will always feel how they do, but just because hundreds of people protest does not mean that they are right," he said.

"We are going to have the same problem with the Gilden Way development. Hundreds of people may protest but it doesn't mean they are right.

"At the meeting we had speakers for and speakers against the plans and I know how a lot of people in Harlow feel. But planning law states you have to have planning reasons for turning it down and while there were some concerns raised by the committee, I didn't feel they were good enough reasons to vote against the application."

However, Cllr Garnett agreed the new waste transfer station, which will handle up to 55,000 tonnes of household waste from Harlow and Epping every year and see up to 100 extra collection lorries pass through the town every day, will add to traffic problems in the area.

"Although the waste transfer station will certainly add to the problem it is not the cause," he said. "I can't turn down an application on the basis of existing problems and we can't blame a particular company for problems that already exist. That is the way that planning a l w a y s works."

Thug threatened to kill his ex-girlfriend

By COURT REPORTER
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A THUG who kidnapped a Harlow woman before threatening to throw her under a train and then breaking her nose has been jailed.

Joseph Mills (22) was found guilty at Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday of kidnapping and assaulting former girlfriend Sophie Johnson. He denied the charges.

The court heard Miss Johnson (19), of Hart Road, went to meet Mills near the Oasis Hotel at in the early hours of May 9 this year.

She told the court he had "ambushed" her before dragging her to Harlow Mill Station and threatening to throw her under a train, asking her: "Do you want the fast train or the slow train?"

She said: "I was sitting on a bench and he was walking around shouting at me saying 'I ***** hate you, I'm going to kill you."

Mills punched her in the face and broke her nose before driving her to his home in Bishop's Stortford and stamping on her, leaving her with bruising and footprints on her back.

Prosecutor Barry Gilbert told the court: "She was terrified. She thought he was going to throw her under a train. She cooperated under duress; he said he was going to kill her."

The court heard Miss Johnson now needs surgery to correct breathing problems caused by her injuries.

Jailing Mills for two years, judge Patrick O'Brien told him: "You are a young man with an appalling record of violence. In general terms, you are plainly a dangerous young man."

"The only possible sentence the court can impose is one of imprisonment. This matter involved taking someone away as well as using considerable violence on them."

The judge also imposed a restraining order preventing Mills from contacting Miss Johnson, and imposed a 15-month jail sentence for an unrelated assault.

A day to celebrate town's cultural diversity

AFRICAN drummers, belly dancers and poetry readers entertained the crowd attending a spectacular celebration of Harlow's cultural diversity on Saturday. Organised by PATAcc (Performing Arts in Traditional African and Caribbean Cultures), the Black History Day saw performances of traditional African songs and dances in Market Square. An arts and crafts exhibition, fashion show and food stalls selling exotic dishes also featured at the event, which organisers said was their biggest yet.

"We have been running the multi-cultural day since 2006 and this year was bigger and better than ever," said

PATAcc chairman Michael Koi-Larbi.

"The point of the event is to celebrate cultural diversity in Harlow and encourage community cohesion between people of all backgrounds.

"I believe the fantastic support we received setting up the event and on the day was representative of just that."

Tories under fire over plan to create title of alderman

PLANS to create an office of Honourary Alderman have been blasted by Labour councillors as a "waste of time and resources".

The ruling Conservative administration on Harlow Council voted through the proposal last month, claiming the titles would be awarded to former councillors who have made outstanding contributions to the town during their time in office.

Although those accepting the roles will not receive any financial remuneration or allowances, they will be given a badge of honour at Poundland.

At a time when there are serious problems caused by the Tory-led government cuts, you would have thought there were better things to worry about than awarding each other gongs".

Cllr Clark said the proposal followed the decision by Tory councillors to spend £4,000 on this month's civic dinner which Labour councillors will boycott.

"Anyone would think that, fearful of losing their seats in next May's elections, they are trying to get as much out of hard-working Harlow residents before they get kicked out," she added.

But council leader Andrew Johnson dismissed Labour's reaction as "political point-scoring".

"They are trying to turn this into a party political issue but this is actually about rewarding councillors of all parties who have made outstanding contributions to the community down the years," he said.

"Aldermen in Harlow will not be paid, will receive no special privileges or have any voting rights or influence over council decisions. The only cost of this scheme will be providing a badge and this cost will be kept to a minimum."

Danielle's walk to the Palace raises £4,000

By VICKY LANE
vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A DETERMINED Harlow woman has completed a 40-mile walk to top up a fundraising total of more than £50,000 towards finding a cure for the condition affecting her mother. Danielle Smart (22), who recently moved to Upper Mealines, has been fundraising for the Huntington's Disease Association with her father for the past five years. Her mother was diagnosed with the central nervous disorder nine years ago when Danielle was aged 13.

"It was a complete shock when we first found out mum had HD," explained Danielle, who works at the anor of Groves golf club. "It is a hereditary disease, though at the time we weren't aware of any other family members suffering with it."

"At first things weren't too bad; we were still able to take nice holidays and she could still do most things. But she really struggles now and needs a lot of care. It has been a complete role reversal."

Symptoms of HD can include uncontrollable muscular movements, stumbling, short-term memory lapse, a lack of concentration, and aggressive behaviour. There is currently no known cure for the condition.

"We really want to keep raising as much money as possible towards research into this condition not only to help mum, but also to help anyone affected in the future. There is a 50 per cent chance that me or my younger sister could inherit this disease so it is vital to do what we can now."

A group of 15 family members and friends of Danielle's completed the 40-mile trek from Bishop's Stortford to Buckingham Palace over the weekend adding another £4,000 to the total.

"It is the second year we have done the walk and I know mum is really proud of everything we have done so far," added Danielle.

"It is great to raise so much money, but also important to raise awareness about this awful condition."

"Even though we have been really lucky to have such supportive friends and family to help us it is very difficult for both us who are responsible for looking after mum and, of course mum herself. The funding we can provide to support research into HD the better."

● To make a donation to the HD Association, visit Danielle's fundraising webpage at www.justgiving.com/palace2011.

Helping the disabled into the world of work

A HARLOW charity promoting access to employment for disabled and disadvantaged people is highlighting its work ahead of World Mental Health Day on October 10. Employ-Ability, based at the Latton Bush Centre in Southern Way, is a specialist supported employment service that helps to identify suitable job opportunities for people referred by mental health services.

The group are raising awareness about what can be achieved when people suffering or recovering from mental health are brought together with sympathetic employers in a well-matched process.

"For people with long-term mental illness, rates of employment are low," explained manager Phil Edwards.

"Currently only 18 per cent of people with long-term mental ill health are in employment – yet one of the most effective and important routes back to sustained health and community involvement is through employment. This is why ahead of World Mental Health Day, we want to raise awareness about what we do as we have had some really terrific success stories in the area."

According to Phil, around 25 companies in Harlow have taken on a client from Employ-Ability in just the last two years, with the majority keeping the person on full-time.

"It is about finding employers who are willing to give people that chance to prove that they are capable of working satisfactorily," he said.

"The positive impact those local employers can then have on those people's recovery is quite remarkable.

"We hope that by highlighting what we do, more employers will get in touch to see what clients we have to suit their job roles. It is a win-win situation."

BUDGING detectives are needed to help find the culprit behind a horrendous crime during a Fawlty Towers-themed murder mystery fundraiser this weekend.

Presented by local entertainment company Pure Murder, all the comedy series' favourites including Basil, Sybil and Manuel will be taking part in the evening's antics to help raise money for Help for Heroes.

The actors are donating all performance fees and proceeds from the show to the charity, which supports those who have been wounded in conflict.

The Murder at Fawlty Towers night takes place at the Harlow Park Inn on Saturday. Tickets cost £35 each and include a three course dinner plus coffee. To reserve a place visit www.puremurder.co.uk/murderinharlow.htm.

Place your bets at cadets' race night

RESIDENTS are being encouraged to get a bet in for a good cause at the Harlow Sea Cadets annual race night.

The family event is taking place at the cadets' headquarters off Tilegate Road in Bush Fair, and will include the traditional night of horse racing, a licensed bar, fish and chip supper and activities for children.

A raffle will also be drawn at the end featuring prizes ranging from wine to Quasar vouchers.

"We hope as many people as possible will join us for what has always proved to be a really fun night," said committee member Charlie Woolley.

The race night takes place on October 15 from 7pm. Tickets cost £8 (including food) and must be purchased in advance or £2.50 on the door without food. Children under 10 go free. To buy tickets, call Charlie on 07934 704018.

Street collection raises over £600

MEMBERS of the Harlow RAF Wing Association have praised the community's generosity after raising £610.05 from a street collection around the town.

The charitable organisation, which supports serving and former Royal Air Force personnel and their families, also held a guess the name of the teddy bear competition during the day. The winner was Emily Lock.

Barn walls are works of art

BUDDING artists from a Harlow secondary school have given a neglected community building a vibrant new look.

Students from Passmores Academy helped Epping-based artist Philip Melling design and paint two colourful new wall murals on the Nicholls Field Sports Barn.

The ageing building is in a prime location between Bush Fair and Potter Street where youngsters – including some of the artists themselves – gather to play ball games, socialise, use the playground and attend a local youth club.

Philip said: "Properly designed murals designed and painted by local young people who use the area was the best way to improve the building and ensure the young people have an interest in looking after it.

"The students came up with some really good designs and we're all really pleased with the results."

Joel Charles, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for community and citizenship, said the project had helped to brighten up the area.

"This is a prime example of young people showing both initiative and great creativity in producing a piece of public art," he added.

"The building on Nicholls Field is in a spot passed by lots of people. I hope residents stop to have a good look!"

£2m costs rule out YWCA for homeless

PLANS to reopen the vacant YWCA building on Fourth Avenue as temporary accommodation for the town's homeless may have hit a brick wall over the estimated cost of the project.

Although the seven-storey tower block is already set for a £3.5m overhaul by owners Circle Housing Group, councillors recently agreed to explore the possibility of using the building as a hostel until the work begins.

But the Star has been told by the housing association the structure is in such a state of disrepair that even making it fit for use as a temporary shelter could cost more than £2m – and claimed any such project would not be eligible for Government funding.

The interior is said to be in desperate need of modernisation and many of the building's electrical and mechanical features – including the lift – need replacing.

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertessexnews.co.uk

Circle managing director Tracy White said: "To refurbish The Angle and make it fit for temporary accommodation as suggested by the council would, we estimate, cost us over £2m and we would not receive any government funding.

"Our not-for profit-business is about providing affordable, quality homes and sustainable communities and we strongly believe that providing short-term accommodation is no solution to tackle the great need for affordable homes in the area."

She added that the firm's original plan to transform the building into modern affordable housing – which is subject to receiving the necessary funding from the Homes & Communities Agency – represented the best way to provide a long-term housing solution for Harlow residents.

"The circa £3.5m investment will not only bring The Angle up to Decent Homes Standard by providing self-contained flats, but we also plan to undertake a complete overhaul of the internal services and the external appearance of the building.

"This will provide modern affordable homes that people in Harlow will want to live in."

However, Ms White said the firm would still welcome discussions with the council about the building's future with "the views of the community and councillors at the heart of all decisions."

Clive Souter, the council's portfolio holder for housing, said the council had felt it was sensible to look into the possible use of the building and still planned to enter "exploratory talks" with Circle over its immediate future.

The YWCA building has stood empty pending decisions by Circle on its future development and the council is always looking at ways it can provide temporary homes for local people in housing need," he added.

Shopping centre owner splashing out on refurb

WORK has started on a £1m refurbishment of the Harvey Centre.

New owners Addington Capital say the complete revamp, including modernised toilets and new escalators, will re-establish the centre as the "heart of shopping" in Harlow.

The makeover follows a number of significant retailer investments throughout the centre, with Wilkinson, Tesco, Argos, Poundland and Blue Inc all improving their presence by modernising and increasing the size of their units.

Primark is also busy expanding its retail space by 50 per cent, with work starting at the beginning of September to convert part of its first floor from storage to retail space and install two escalators and a customer lift.

Harvey Centre manager Bryan Young said the improvements demonstrated confidence in Harlow despite difficult trading conditions.

"We believe the refurbishment will attract new retailers to Harlow and encourage even more existing retailers to invest in their shop fits," he said.

"This continued confidence in the Harvey Centre from retailers is very encouraging and the redecoration of the pillars, pilasters and ceilings along with improved lighting, flooring and directional signage will really modernise the centre providing a much improved shopping environment," he said.

Harlow Council leader Andrew Johnson added: "These are exciting plans that clearly demonstrate the importance of our town in the wider region and one that is a perfect place for other retailers to set up in."

"The council has high ambitions for the town centre of which a revamped Harvey Centre will be a key part."

Pastor's school project a symbol of hope for Haiti

THE suffering of the survivors of last year's earthquake in Haiti is far from over according to a Harlow churchman who recently returned from his second visit to the disaster-stricken country.

Since travelling to the Caribbean following the quake which struck on January 12 and claimed more than 230,000 lives, Rev Albert Delali-Yevunya, pictured left, has been doing all he can to help the victims who are struggling to put their lives back together.

The pastor, from the House of Mercy Baptist Church in Katherines, set up the Kevalbert Foundation with friend Kevin Miles to raise funds for the construction of a new school in the north of the country. It is a project which is now gathering pace following the purchase of a plot of land.

"Things aren't moving on well in Haiti, in fact in many ways they are worse," Mr Delali-Yevunya (40) said this week. "The country is being forgotten and that is having devastating consequences."

"Many people are still living in makeshift tents which aren't just insufficient against strong weather conditions such as the recent hurricane [Irene], but also offer no security."

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

"People are hungry and completely reliant on aid handouts for food and clean water as there are no jobs available for them to make their own living. Diseases such as malaria and diarrhoea are claiming lives every day."

Mr Delali-Yevunya hopes the new school, which is expected to be completed next year, can offer Haitian youngsters a brighter future.

"Without a doubt one of the biggest ways we can help the people of Haiti is through education," he said, "and this school will do just that."

"Not only will it provide free academic lessons for hundreds of children in the area every year, it will also teach them essential life skills including simple hygiene practises, sex education and practical skills to give them a trade that they can earn money with."

"The school will also provide jobs for local people and will have facilities such as IT equipment, and basic learning tools that these children have never had access to."

To make a donation towards the Haiti school project, contact Mr Delali-Yevunya on 07984 782111 or email minister.albert@yahoo.co.uk.

100,000 sign Halfon's fuel cost petition

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A PETITION launched by Harlow MP Robert Halfon demanding urgent action on spiralling fuel costs has received the 100,000 signatures needed to trigger a debate in Parliament.

The 'Cheaper Petrol and Diesel' e-petition was started by Mr Halfon in conjunction with pressure group FairFuelUK three months ago as part of a high-profile campaign to persuade the Government to cut fuel duty and introduce measures to drive down pump prices on the forecourt.

It quickly became one of the most popular causes on the Government's e-petitions website and is now one of just three to have attracted 100,000 signatures.

"It has only taken since the end of July to reach 100,000 signatures which shows the strength of feeling there is for this issue," Mr Halfon told the Star this week.

"Cutting fuel duty now must be a priority for the Chancellor, over and above the clamour to cut taxes for millionaires.

"Rip-off petrol and diesel prices are now so high they are a poverty trap, keeping people on benefits as jobseekers can't afford to travel, while many businesses are struggling to stay afloat."

He plans to use the forthcoming Commons debate – a date for which has yet to be set – to argue for an immediate cut in fuel duty and call on the Government to apply pressure on the oil companies to drop pump prices.

"I will also be urging the Government to set up a Royal Commission to look at long-term prices of petrol and questioning how oil stocks are released from the strategic reserves as there is evidence that banks brought up supplies and then stored them at sea in order to keep oil prices high," he said.

Fair FuelUK campaign manager Peter Carroll said the petition's popularity sent a clear message to the Government.

"The public have spoken loud and clear," he said. "People are looking to the politicians to understand that a cut in fuel duty would stimulate growth and have the added benefit of reducing inflation."

Group marks 25 years with a fish and chip celebration

THE Harlow branch of a national charity celebrated 25 years of service in the community by holding a fish and chips party. More than 80 people tucked into meal to mark Parkinson's UK birthday milestone. Among those attending were Harlow MP Robert Halfon, specialist nurses, volunteers and carers as well as sufferers of the condition and their friends and family.

"Our anniversary celebrations went really well and we were really pleased to have so many people turn up," said secretary Corinne Hall.

"Most people involved with Parkinson's UK have been affected by the condition, whether directly or through a family member, so it is really nice for everyone to be able to come together and have some fun."

The group, which is based at the David Livingstone Club in Potter Street, offers information, friendship and support to anyone affected by the neurological condition, holding regular branch meetings and an open club every Wednesday.

"We aim to make the lives of people affected by Parkinson's that little bit easier and would welcome any new members," added Corinne.

Is that the council? Can you clear the monsters from my bathroom?

REQUESTS for restaurant takeaway numbers, information on French buses and help with changing a car tyre are just some of the more unusual calls taken by staff at Harlow Council's contact centre.

The quirky queries have been revealed as the centre, which has dealt with almost four million inquiries since opening in September 2001, celebrates its 10th anniversary this month.

The most common queries dealt with by staff are about rubbish, recycling, housing and benefits.

But at the stranger end of the spectrum one caller asked for help clearing monsters from a bathroom, while another wanted to know whether their bus pass could be used in France.

One person even claimed they needed to move house urgently as their pet dog was frightened of their neighbours!

Set up to give the public better access to council staff and services, the contact centre was one of the first to open in the country and has helped pave the way for similar services to be set up by local authorities across the UK. Councillor Joel Charles, portfolio holder for community and citizenship, said: "Our contact centre staff are excellent but even their skills stop short of public transport advice in France or recommendations on Indian takeaways!"

"Our contact centre employees are the first point of contact with the public and we believe this is a service our residents really value."

"It helps people visiting the Civic Centre or calling to get the help they need with the minimum of fuss."

Good neighbours pose for a photo

By VICKY LANE

vicky.lane@hertsessexnews.co.uk

IT was a couple of weeks ago when we reported on the time back in the 1960s when Bushey Croft was named as Harlow's friendliest neighbourhood.

After topping a poll in the Harlow Citizen, the residents gathered together for a picture to celebrate their well-deserved accolade.

And this week Nostalgia was sent a copy of that original photograph by Harlow councillor Ian Beckett, whose family lived in Bushey Croft at the time.

"The picture sent in by Sue Simons looks to me as if it was taken minutes after the original one as you can see everyone starting to walk away," he said. "It was for a feature being run by the paper on the emerging neighbourhood communities as it was still a relatively new town then."

Mr Beckett, who was born at 14 Bushey Croft, said the Nostalgia article caused "quite a flurry" among members of his family. "I was soon on the phone to my brother Colin and sister Linda after reading it," he said.

"Sue Simons managed to remember most of the names of the local families that we did and they are all here in this photo, too: the Vandersteens, the James family, the Blackwells, the Kings with their daughters Sue and Wendy in the front centre, and my parents, Les and Betty Beckett, with my sisters Linda and Brenda. There is also Betty Pope, Nell and George Hutchinson and Maureen Mulvey and her children.

"I don't know why my brother and I aren't in the photo. I would have been about one and my brother about five; perhaps we were both momentarily camera-shy!"

According to Mr Beckett, Sue was right about the strength of the Bushey Croft community. "Although it's a cliché, we did actually leave our side doors open during the day. Familiar neighbours would tap on the door and enter calling 'ooh-ooh' so you knew who it was. We also called our neighbours aunt or uncle as a mark of respect.

"I can remember 'aunt' Rose (King) reminding me on numerous occasions how she was there at my birth, coming round to assist at a moment's notice in the early hours of the morning."

NOSTALGIA UPDATE: Burnt Mill School

WHETHER you showed your appreciation at the time or not, it is true to say that a good teacher is never forgotten. But it is something which, according to one of Burnt Mill's first teachers, can sometimes act as more of a hindrance than a compliment.

Dan Rees, of Bishop's Stortford, wrote to Nostalgia after a colleague sent him the article about Burnt Mill's first school staff, to say that even now, at the age of 88, he is often recognised.

"I started as the head of crafts at Burnt Mill when it opened in 1962 teaching things like woodwork and technical drawing," he explained.

"I spent 25 very happy years there – all my family did. My own children chose to go to Burnt Mill and we all loved the area; none of us wanted to leave.

"However, when we did eventually move my wife always said she couldn't come back to Harlow because we'd get stopped by too many ex-pupils wanting to say hello and never get anything done!"

Mr Rees (second from the left in the back row of the picture above which was taken in 1962) went on to become a deputy head at the school before retiring in 1987. "My car broke down recently and when I called out the AA it was yet another ex-pupil of mine," he said. "He decided to kindly remind me of the time when I told a particular student that if he didn't buck up his ideas then he would never amount to anything."

"That student was Glenn Hoddle. How wrong I was!"

25 years ago in the Star

→ A Harlow artist has removed a painting from the library of a naked woman lying next to a man in mountaineering gear following complaints that it was sexist. Terry Martin, of Churchfield, said he was amazed at the reaction to the oil painting, entitled The Conquest, which he said was meant to represent the woman's conquest over the man.

→ A more efficient bus service has been promised when the new Transport Act handling the recent denationalisation of the service comes into effect on Sunday. A spokesperson for London Country North East buses said the service would be better because the competition would keep operators on their toes.

→ Harlow MP Jerry Hayes has condemned preliminary Government proposals to cut the Essex right support grant by £10.4m as "madness". He said he hoped a major offensive would change minds and was doing all he could to stop the cut.

→ The cost of seven vintage barrows bought by Harlow Council recently is "no secret at all" according to a spokesman. A request for the cost in last week's Star letters page brought a quick response from the council which said there was never any hiding the £4,300 cost paid at auction.

Travellers' site is not classified Green Belt

SIR, With reference to Jim Pailing's letter regarding Dale Farm (Star, September 29), he inadvertently highlights the uncertainties of the planning consent argument.

The disputed part of Dale Farm was a scrapyard until its sale to travellers in 2001. On the land stood three brick-built barn size storage units. The travellers demolished two of them to utilise the concrete bases for homes. Most of the brick rubble was used to create extra hardstandings and hardcore for concrete roads.

The planning consent issue is now being examined in the High Court, with the judge so far ruling that at least six plots are not on Green Belt land. This is at odds with Basildon Council's plan to clear all 50 plots.

The travellers own the land but were denied retrospective planning consent. Some neighbours who live in houses have done exactly the same but they got the consent. Having been a parish councillor in Essex, I know this is not uncommon in rural areas.

Travellers were forced to abandon their nomadic lifestyle in favour of static caravan sites as a result of legislation in the 1960s that denied them access to common land. Despite provision to compensate travellers by providing static pitches, councils reluctantly only started to do so once Labour brought in new laws in 1968.

The Conservatives then reversed those laws in 1994 with John Major's government encouraging travellers to buy land with the prospect that planning consent would not be unreasonably withheld. This was detailed in Planning Circular 1/94.

Labour then reversed that guidance in 2006 due to very few planning applications being approved. It urged councils to identify suitable sites so that travellers could set up their own sites with minimal state assistance. In paragraph 15 of Circular 1/06 councils are encouraged to grant planning permission on brownfield sites as they could, with some landscaping, actually enhance the environment.

And so we come full circle. Scrapyards are brownfield sites yet Basildon Council has doggedly pursued the Green Belt issue.

SIR, Does being disabled in Harlow have a curfew?

My mother is disabled and has a blue badge for when she is driving or being taken somewhere by myself or friends. So why is it that when she wants to park in certain parts of Harlow town centre after 5.30pm she cannot?

Two particular points in question are North Gate and West Gate adjacent to Dominos Pizza. What makes able-bodied people think that they can park in these spaces at will when they go out in the evening?

Are disabled people precluded from having a social life by having their parking spaces either taken or blocked by selfish drivers?

When asked why they are parked in these spaces the response is usually either that they didn't realise or they are only there for a few minutes. Neither argument cuts any ice. If it is not one of these it is blatant aggression and foul language.

The compounding issue is that there is no reason for these drivers to think twice before parking in a disabled space as the local police and support officers do absolutely nothing about it. We have seen the current legislation enforced in supermarket car parks but it seems it is a 9am-5pm law in Harlow town centre.

It may have been said before but if they want the parking space would they like the disability to go with it?

Colin Harvey
address supplied - Editor

However, this argument is being undermined by the council's agreement for property developers to build hundreds of homes and several industrial developments on Green Belt land.

Land is only Green Belt when it suits a Tory council.

Part of the problem is that the number of travellers in Britain has not been accurately assessed. In a landmark court ruling in 2000, Irish travellers were classified as an ethnic minority which resulted in a 'Traveller' category being added to the 2011 Census form.

Ethnic minority status afforded travellers protection from discrimination under the Race Relations Act. Despite this, little has changed in discriminatory attitudes towards travellers. This has been highlighted by the Commission for Racial Equality, the European Union and the United Nations' Committee for the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination.

Basildon Council leader Tony Ball maintains that it is the travellers' intransigence that is preventing a peaceful solution to Dale Farm.

However, MEP Richard Howitt has revealed that an offer of free land in Basildon from the Homes and Communities Agency to resettle Dale Farm residents has been on offer since November 2009 but has been scuppered by Basildon Council refusing to grant planning consent on "technical grounds".

Tears for a man who touched lives of many

SIR, I was privileged and humbled to attend the funeral of Paul Crossman last week. Most people will not have heard of Paul because, for many years, he was a rough sleeper, who often bedded down at St Paul's Church.

He had problems but that did not mean he lost his humanity and compassion. We heard a moving eulogy from someone who lives at the church how Paul was the first person he met when he moved in, giving him a warm handshake to welcome him to Harlow, and of how Paul gave up his sleeping bag to another person who had nowhere else to go. Most people's memory of Paul was of a miserable git who had a ready smile, and who never complained. Recently, through Streets2Homes, he found a permanent place in which to live. His life began to turn round; now he has found an even better place.

May I pay tribute to all those who helped with Paul's final journey, the staff of St Paul's for the beautiful service, funeral directors Daniel Robinson for caring and carrying Paul at the end and to Harlow Council for its help and support. And most of all to everyone at Streets2Homes for their care and compassion.

Paul would not have recognised his funeral because of the large number of people there, people whose lives he had touched and the friends he didn't know he had. He would have wept, as we all did.

Simon Carter, chairman
Streets2Homes, 2 Wych Elm, Harlow

Please sign petition about bus services

SIR, I am writing to provide an update to my previous letter about bus services in Netteswell, Mark Hall and The Stow.

The leader of Harlow Council is looking to set up a meeting between residents, district and county councillors and the bus companies to see what can be resolved. At the time of writing we are waiting for a time and date.

Cllr Mark Gough's e-petition has been approved and is on the Essex County Council website at www.essexcc.gov.uk. It is called "Re-instate or improve the bus service down Maddox Road, Harlow" and can be signed up until October 20.

We are aware that not everyone has access to a computer so I have a paper copy of the petition in my possession for people to come and see me to sign. Also, subject to approval, we hope two others will be available to sign in the libraries at The Stow and the town centre as soon as possible. So please add your support to our campaign.

Rescuing the red squirrel

A CONSERVATION project launched almost 50 years ago to provide endangered red squirrels with a safe habitat is nearing completion.

For decades, volunteers have been taking the ferry to Brownsea Island off the Dorset coast to help chop down rhododendron bushes.

Although they look beautiful when they flower, the parasitic bushes prevent other plants and trees from growing nearby – including those that carry the squirrels' main sources of food. Almost 15,000 people – from Cub Scouts to pensioners – have helped Dorset Wildlife Trust clear its side of the island, with the last bush uprooted last week.

Importantly, Brownsea is free from the red squirrels' fierce rivals – their grey cousins.

The thriving greys compete with them for food and spread a virus, squirrel pox, which can kill the reds.

There are thought to be about 250 red squirrels now living on the island, and conservationists are convinced the population is now growing thanks to their efforts.

Abigail Gibbs from the Dorset Wildlife Trust told reporters: "The rhododendron is a highly invasive plant so it completely takes over a habitat."

"In the areas that are regenerating, there are more squirrels. Before, when you went into an area deep and dark with rhododendron, you wouldn't see anything at all."

According to a recent study, about half of British red squirrels have disappeared in the past 50 years.

Some experts think they could disappear completely from the English mainland within 20 or 30 years unless more effort is made to protect them.

Will this year of royal weddings make marriage a good proposal?

We wait ages for a royal wedding, then along came two this year within a couple of months of each other. Who can forget the fabulous nuptials of Wills and Kate, below, back in April followed closely by Zara Phillips and rugby captain Mike Tindall?

Weddings bring out the romance in even the most cynical. How many times have you heard a couple say they met at a wedding or that a proposal followed after seeing good friends get married? Maybe the royal weddings of 2011 will inspire much of the same and bring with it a surge in new engagements.

If you've got engaged this year congratulations! You're about to start planning your main event. A day you'll remember for the rest of your life.

To make sure you have the wedding of your dreams, it's a good idea to start planning some of the basics as soon as possible. It may sound obvious but a little forward planning will go a long way.

Will you be planning a religious or civil ceremony? Where will your reception be? How many people do you want to invite? Will the date work for everyone? There are so many issues to consider.

First of all it's a good idea to think about the time of year you'd like to hold the wedding. Do you see yourself as a summer bride or are you dreaming of a winter celebration with perhaps a Christmas tree and fur trimmed dress?

The season will not only dictate the style of wedding you have, it will also determine what is available. Summer is still the most popular time to get married and some venues are likely to be booked up several years in advance.

If you do have a particular place in mind, you might consider marrying at a different time of year. There's no getting away from it, cost is a major factor, whether you're marrying a prince or pauper!

It's very easy to get carried away when planning your dream wedding but before you commit yourself to anything, sit down and work out what you can afford to spend and what your priorities are. If anyone else is contributing, it makes sense to involve them in the discussions too.

The average wedding now costs around £20,000 but only you know what you can afford.

Decide on a budget and then stick to it. If you over-spend in one area, work out how you can economise elsewhere. Work out how many friends and family you want to invite.

The size of your guest list has a huge impact on where you can marry.

If you've set your heart on tying the knot in the local village church near your parents' home but it only holds 50, you're going to have a re-think if you're already at 200 on the provisional guest list. The same goes for your reception venue.

Once the basics are covered you can start enjoying the details such as choosing your dress, deciding on bridesmaids, organising a photographer, cake etc.

The planning doesn't have to be stressful. Organisation and more organisation is the key to a truly magical wedding day.

Stewards gains academy status

STEWARDS School has become the fifth in Harlow to break free from local authority control by becoming an academy.

The school's application for academy status has been approved by Education Secretary Michael Gove. Passmores, St Mark's West Essex, Holy Cross Primary and St Albans' Primary have already gone down the same route.

Now known as Stewards Academy, it will be supported by the Schools Co-operative Society and will be able to make its own decisions in areas including the length of school days and terms, staff pay and conditions and delivery of the curriculum.

Headteacher Rhonda Murthar said: "Although we are now an independent academy we intend to continue the close links we have with other local schools and will remain closely associated with the Harlow Education Trust."

"We are committed to the values of the Schools Cooperative Society."

In his confirmation letter, Mr Gove said the move would allow Stewards to share working methods with other schools.

"Stewards Academy has the opportunity to share best practice and work with others to bring about sustained improvements to all schools in the area," he said.

Pedestrian injured in road accident

POLICE have appealed for witnesses after a pedestrian was seriously injured in a road collision in Harlow.

The 57-year-old man from Harlow suffered head and arm injuries in the accident involving a silver Mercedes 220 car.

He was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital where his condition yesterday (Wednesday) was described as stable.

The accident happened at Tillwicks Road near the junction with Tumbler Road at around 2.35pm on Saturday.

Anyone who saw what happened or has information about events leading up to the collision should contact PC Drew Kirk at Chigwell Road Policing Unit on 101 (or 0300 333 4444 if calling from outside of Essex).

Play plane returns to Market Square

A PIECE of play equipment has been returned to the children's area in Market Square after being taken away for repair just one month after being installed.

The brightly coloured wooden bi-plane was removed for a week after the damage was detected. It has now been strengthened with steel struts to withstand the attention of even the most energetic young pilots.

The children's playground is part of the council's £165,000 renovation of the Market Square area, which has also seen the introduction of giant plant pots and new seating areas.

A council spokesman said the damage to the bi-plane had never posed a risk to children and the reinforcements were a precautionary measure.

Police warning over bogus loan scam

POLICE investigating a suspected fraud have warned Harlow residents to be wary of cold calls from bogus loan companies.

The advice comes after a Harlow woman was contacted by phone by a man purporting to be from a loan company stating she had qualified for an £8,000 loan.

After agreeing to pay a set-up administration charge of £186, the victim ended up paying a total of £740 in various payments before realising she was being conned.

Investigating officer PC Lucy Percival said: "I want to warn people not to take out loans from people who contact them."

"If you need a loan, always shop around and go to reputable companies. Sadly this woman had forked out £740 before she realised this was bogus."

Anyone with any information about the scam is asked to contact PC Lucy Percival at Harlow police station on 101.

Students show a flair for fashion

FORGET Paris Fashion Week – shoppers in Harlow discovered all they needed to know about the season's latest trends during a weekend of sizzling 'flash fashion' shows in The Water Gardens.

Showcasing the new autumn and winter collections available in stores including River Island, Next, Peacocks, Dorothy Perkins and JD Sports, they also gave Harlow College fashion students the chance to show off some of their own creations.

Fashion course leader Shelley Clarke, said: "The shows were fantastic and the fashion weekend was an ideal platform for the students to show off their budding talent.

"There is no doubt they found it a great challenge to perform in front of so many people but they have learnt so much and were outstanding!"

Water Gardens manager Beryl Murphy added: "It was great to see so many people enjoying the fashion shows which hopefully benefitted both our retailers and the community.

"The college students were incredibly talented and have a very bright future!"

New regulations on the rights of agency workers

AGENCY workers are in line for an improvement to their employment rights as a result of new legislation about to come into force.

Agency workers, often referred to as 'temps', have become a feature of most modern day workplaces but have often found themselves having significantly less rights than the colleagues they work with.

An agency worker is someone who has a contract with an employment agency but actually works for another organisation.

Whilst they are often referred to as 'temps' they can be employed in this way for many years. It is not unheard of for agency workers to be continuously employed for 10 years or more. However, because they are employed by an agency and not the place where they actually work, they can often be on much lower pay and worse conditions than their colleagues. This situation is due to change.

On Saturday (October 1) the Agency Workers Regulations come into force. The purpose of these regulations is to provide temporary agency workers with the same basic conditions as those employed directly to do the same job.

The regulations mean that once an agency worker has worked in a position for 12 weeks they will become entitled to the same basic working conditions as their colleagues employed directly. This covers things like pay, working hours, breaks and holidays. It does not, however, cover access to occupational pension schemes or give entitlement to occupational sick pay.

All agency workers have to serve this 12-week period from October 1 regardless of earlier service. Each week that is worked counts towards this 12-week period, even if only a couple of hours each week are worked.

Agency workers employed on October 1 will, from that date, have the right to access collective facilities at work including things like canteens, crèches etc.

The regulations do not change the agency workers status and they will still remain employed by the employment agency, meaning they still may face problems if dismissed etc, but the regulations do go some way to ensuring equality of treatment.

BURNT MILL Actor Graham Cole joined current and former MPs Robert Halfon and Stan Newens and a group of local authors at the opening of the First Avenue school's new library.

Former pupil Graham, who played PC Tony Stamp in the police drama The Bill, and several other guests spoke to students about their careers, highlighting the importance that reading played in their success. Headteacher Helena Mills said: "Reading is an important part of life at Burnt Mill and a key factor in achieving academic excellence."

"Our students read books for research and enjoyment, they read a newspaper in the morning and many have taken on the challenge of reading 50 books this year to celebrate our 50th anniversary."

SUNFLOWERS NURSERY Comic book characters Superman, Batman and Superwoman dropped in at the Broadleaf Road nursery during its charity superheroes day.

Children and staff paid £1 to dress up as their favourite characters and raise money for the Momentum group which provides support to people with brain injuries or other neurological conditions. Parents also made donations to the charity, helping to top up the final total to £120.

Manager Anne Wiggit said: "We do a charity event annually and thought that a superheroes day was something a bit different that would help to raise money for a group we haven't supported before."

"The children and staff all really enjoyed dressing up and had a lot of fun. It is definitely something we would consider doing again."

STEWARDS The glorious weather helped to make things all the more authentic for students and staff enjoying an oriental themed afternoon to celebrate the school's new Chinese garden.

Those who attended the opening, which was held on an inset day, enjoyed an afternoon of Chinese music, food and drinks.

Designed by students Alex Tidmas and Shannon McCabe, the new outdoor area has been strongly influenced by Chinese culture and aims to provide a tranquil setting for both work and pleasure activities.

Deputy head Marie Erwood said: "Everybody loves the new garden and we are all really enjoying being able to take classes and work outside more, especially in light of the current weather."

"We hope the garden will support the students with their appreciation and understanding of Chinese culture, as well as providing them with a suitable area which they can enjoy socially as well as in an educational capacity."

A new, modern look for Old Harlow.

The branch at 20, High Street

The Co-operative Funeralcare at 20 High Street, Old Harlow, has recently undergone extensive refurbishment, bringing with it a more welcoming and uplifting approach to funeral home design.

While the décor has changed, the two funeral arrangers, Nicola Crawley and Jennifer Fleming, and their colleagues, continue to be on hand 24 hours a day, 7 days a week in your time of need.

The funeral home has been decorated in warm pastel colours, to create more comfortable and less intimidating surroundings. The refurbishment intended to help people feel more at ease when making funeral arrangements and the interior includes reception area and separate arranging and remembrance rooms. Of the refurbishments, manager Shane Illsley says "We are very proud of our newly refurbished branch. We're determined to make funeral homes more approachable and to help get people thinking and talking about funerals. By being better prepared, they can save themselves and their families much emotional distress when the time comes to make arrangements".

The team are also very proud to offer their care and support to local communities. Shane Illsley says of his role "We are privileged to be able to provide help and support when people need it most. We are here to provide guidance on all the options and choices that are available when arranging a

Scouts roll up to learn skills of the Big Top

A GROUP of Scouts enjoyed some in-tents training at a fun-packed skills workshop laid on by performers from a visiting circus.

The youngsters dropped into Jay Miller's Circus at the Harlow Town Park showground on Monday night to try their hand at plate-spinning, juggling, Diablo sticks and clowning as they worked towards their circus skills activity badge.

Circus director John Miller said: "I don't think any of the children are ready to join us just yet but we were certainly impressed by how quickly they picked up the basics!"

Artists make an exhibition of recycling

AN exhibition of abstract works created exclusively by local artists aged between 60 and 85 has proved a big hit.

Scores of visitors have attended the Endeavour Workshop Show at town centre gallery Gatehouse Arts over the past fortnight to view the innovative creations, which breathe new life into objects otherwise destined for the scrapheap.

Using books, boxes and other recyclable materials, the group put together a series of fascinating pieces exploring the theme of renewal and regeneration while also learning more about abstract art.

Workshop co-ordinator Jane Burnett said: "The workshops and exhibition have been a tremendous success and I'm thrilled with the results.

"I'm also incredibly proud and impressed with those who have taken part, all of whom wanted to be viewed as serious artists comfortable with pushing their own personal creative boundaries.

"They have put a huge amount of hard work, energy and creativity into this project and have thoroughly enjoyed themselves." The gallery's next exhibition – titled The Improbability Of A Well-Balanced Mind and featuring a series of abstract installations, sculptures and animations – opens on Tuesday and runs until October 15.

New show offering a taste of variety

A SENSATIONAL new variety show featuring some of the UK's most talented cabaret acts makes its dazzling debut at The Playhouse later this month.

Billed as the ultimate variety show, Sensation brings together professional dancers, circus performers, comedians, impressionists, magicians, ventriloquists and musicians under one roof.

The two-hour extravaganza has been put together by former Harlow dancer Hayley Jane Griffin and her magician husband Richard, an award-winning double act who have performed on some of the world's biggest cruise liners with their acclaimed magic show.

Hayley Jane, who launched her showbiz career after training at Harlow's Brenda Taylor School of Dance, said: "The line-up we've got is packed full of top British talent and with such a diverse range of breathtaking acts on the bill there really will be something for everyone."

Those performing in the show on October 22 include Hayley Jane's husband Richard, comedy ventriloquist Steve Hewlett, who entertained Prince William and bride-to-be Kate Middleton at a Christmas show last year, and gravity-defying contortionist Inga Luvsamdorj, a former finalist on hit TV show Britain's Got Talent.

Hayley Jane added: "We decided to debut this amazing show at The Playhouse because I've been performing there in various shows and pantomimes since I was six and have lots of wonderful memories.

"We want to give Harlow residents the chance to see a world class piece of fantastic entertainment. This really is the ultimate variety show."

Sensation will run for two performances at The Playhouse on Saturday, October 22. The matinee starts at 2.30pm (tickets £15 / £13.50 concessions) while the evening performance begins at 7.30pm (£17.50 / £16 concessions).

Rowan's secret agent is more of a has-Bean

JOHNNY ENGLISH REBORN certificate PG, 1h41m

JOHNNY English Repackaged might be a more fitting title for this sequel to the 2003 comedy which poked gentle fun at the image of British spies as debonair gents with a licence to kill.

Aside from the casting of rising star Daniel Kaluuya as Johnny's sidekick and a prominent role for a voice-controlled Rolls-Royce Phantom Coupe V16, Johnny English Reborn could have been shot directly after the original film and left to gather dust on a shelf marked Straight To DVD Some Day.

Rowan Atkinson's secret agent is outdated and a chauvinist, dismissing the most obvious suspect for a shooting simply because it's a woman while action sequences unfold at pedestrian pace.

Following a disastrous mission in Mozambique, Johnny (Atkinson) turns his back on MI7 and heads to a Tibetan retreat to learn that "mind must be master of body".

Section chief Pamela Thornton (Gillian Anderson) woos him back to help thwart an assassination attempt on the Chinese premier. She pairs him up with rookie agent Tucker (Kaluuya), who lives in south London with his mother and finesses his gun skills by playing on his Xbox.

After a meeting with Agent Titus Fisher (Richard Schiff), Johnny learns of a dastardly plot masterminded by a shadowy organisation called Vortex. He joins forces with fellow operative Simon Ambrose (Dominic West) and sexy behavioural psychologist Kate Sumner (Rosamund Pike) to unmask a traitor at the very heart of British Intelligence.

Johnny English is an old-fashioned, gently effervescent spy caper that amuses but rarely delights. Atkinson's talent for physical humour delivers a couple of belly laughs and his contortions are pure Mr Bean while the rest of the cast keep straight faces. But the script lacks invention and dialogue feels flat apart from the occasional zinging one-liner.

Atkinson's co-stars do what they can with their two-dimensional roles as the sequel trundles towards the inevitable final showdown in a snow-laden mountain-top hideout complete with a cable car as the only escape route.

After this second assignment, Johnny's licence to thrill has been revoked.

THE LION KING (3D & 2D) certificate U, 1h29m

DISNEY'S highest-grossing hand-drawn animation of all time strides back onto the big screen, looking more sensational than ever in the increasingly fashionable 3D format.

Elderly lion Scar (voiced by Jeremy Irons) plots to usurp his brother, the majestic King Mufasa (James Earl Jones), and seize control of the grasslands in a fragile alliance with the hyenas.

The scoundrel orchestrates a devilish plan to kill Mufasa and his newborn heir Simba (Jonathan Taylor Thomas) by luring them into a canyon during a wildebeest stampede.

Mufasa dies saving his son from being crushed under hoof. Poor Simba, overwhelmed by guilt and inflamed by Scar's cruel words, flees his homeland for the jungle where he befriends the eccentric double-act of neurotic meerkat Timon (Nathan Lane) and flatulent warthog Pumbaa (Ernie Sabella).

Years later, the now full-grown Simba (Matthew Broderick) chances upon his former sweetheart Nala (Moria Kelly), who tells of Scar's despotic reign. Filled with anger, Simba returns to Pride Rock to overthrow Scar and save his family from extinction.

>>still on screen

Abduction High school student Nathan Harper (Taylor Lautner) thinks he has the perfect life with caring parents Kevin (Jason Isaacs) and Mara (Maria Bello), but something is amiss. While researching a school project on missing children, Nathan discovers that he bears an uncanny resemblance to the age-modified image of a boy who went missing many years ago. Before Nathan has a chance to learn the truth from his parents, assassins kill Kevin and Mara and the teenager goes on the run with neighbour Karen (Lily Collins) in tow, aided by best friend Gilly (Denzel Whitaker). Then shadowy CIA agent Burton (Alfred Molina) makes contact with Nathan and warns the teenager that he is a pawn in a dastardly plot.

Drive Driver (Ryan Gosling) works as a mechanic for his good friend, Shannon (Bryan Cranston). When he's not working in the shop, Driver performs illegal jobs which invariably involve high-speed getaways from crime scenes. There are romantic complications when Driver falls for pretty mother Irene (Carey Mulligan), whose husband Standard Gabriel (Oscar Isaac) has just been released from prison and wants to rebuild bridges with his little boy, Benicio (Kaden Leos). Unfortunately, Standard owes prison protection money from his time behind bars to hoodlum Cook (James Biberi). So Standard plots to rob a pawn shop to settle the debt aided by Cook's associate Blanche (Christina Hendricks). Driver agrees to sit behind the wheel of the getaway vehicle but the heist goes wrong, marking Driver for death at the hands of hoodlums Bernie Rose (Albert Brooks) and Nino (Ron Perlman).

Shark Night 3D What could be a better location for a summer holiday than a cabin on its own island? Luckily for Sara (Sara Paxton), her folks own just such a getaway in Louisiana so she rounds up a bunch of college pals for a weekend of fun in the sun. Soon everyone has stripped down to their bathing costumes for a serious session of watersports and sunbathing. When star football player Malik (Singue Walls) emerges from the water with his arm torn off, they assume he's had a terrible accident and realise they've got to get him to a hospital fast. But what they don't know as they set out for the far shore in a tiny speedboat is that the lake has been stocked with hundreds of vicious, flesh-eating sharks. And these are seemingly bent on picking off the tasty teenagers one-by-one.

The Smurfs 2D When the evil wizard Gargamel chases the tiny blue Smurfs out of their village, they tumble through a portal joining their magical world to ours. They end up in New York from where they must find their way home.

Five-bedroom detached in a small gated development

coverproperty

Location Silver Street, Stansted

Category Five-bedroom detached

Additional Immaculately maintained, three reception rooms, bespoke kitchen/breakfast room, en suite to master bedroom

Guide price £725,000

Agent Mackay Property Agents, The Old Barn, 2a The Square, Sawbridgeworth. Telephone (01279) 600567

THIS week's cover property is in a small and secure gated development at Stansted.

This is a classically styled and well proportioned five-bedroom detached family home. One of two properties built in 2003 to a very high standard by a local developer, it has been immaculately maintained and continually upgraded by the current owners.

The ground floor benefits from high ceilings providing a grand and spacious feeling throughout. There is a large reception hall with oak floor, a generous bespoke kitchen/breakfast room and three beautifully presented reception rooms.

The living room is particularly impressive with solid oak flooring, dual aspect windows and two sets of French doors opening onto a patio area. Completing the facilities on this floor are the utility laundry room, a cloakroom and a generous understairs cupboard.

The light and airy first floor landing leads to an opulent master bedroom suite with dressing room and en-suite with both a double ended bath and oversize shower.

Two generous double bedrooms with built-in wardrobes and shower room complete the first floor accommodation.

The second floor landing is an unexpectedly large and versatile space which could easily accommodate an office. The two remaining double bedrooms and a luxury spa bathroom, complete with two person AirBath, are all accessed off the landing.

The house is approached via remote controlled gates leading to a small secure private courtyard. The garage provides parking for two large vehicles and benefits from an electric door, power/light and generous storage. There is parking for at least two additional vehicles in front of the garage.

The enclosed rear garden is walled to the side and rear and includes a lawn with raised shrub borders and a large patio, ideal for entertaining. Call Mackay Property Agents on (01279) 600567 for further details.

REVIEW

When we used a previous agent in the center of Harlow they seemed to just send anyone round to make the numbers up. When we finally instructed Kings we found that they sent genuine buyers. They were very professional and treated us with respect. They welcomed our concerns and dealt with them promptly and honestly.

New Yaris has plenty to offer

By Iain Dooley

AFTER two successful generations, Toyota has decided to overhaul its popular Yaris model.

A little bigger than before, Toyota has set this Yaris the task of attracting existing supermini buyers plus those seeking to downsize from larger cars but keen to maintain a certain level of convenience and luxury.

As such, this third-gen car has been designed with dark cabin plastics and plush seats. It can also be had with a low cost sat-nav unit which boasts the added feature of internet connectivity.

With Google searches and the ability to download navigation destination information, local weather, car park, petrol station and other such useful data, Toyota is hoping such features will attract younger buyers alongside its traditional mature demographic.

At first glance it's easy to see where Toyota is going with the new Yaris. Its exterior styling is more dramatic and sporty than before, while its expanded dimensions have been cleverly disguised – it's a bigger car but you rarely notice it.

The car's grille treatment is obvious, though, and is part of Toyota's plan to instill its new cars with a bolder, more

FACTfile

Toyota Yaris TR 1.33 5dr

Engine: 1.33-litre petrol unit developing 98bhp
Transmission: 6-speed manual as standard, driving front wheels
Performance: Top speed 109mph / 0-62mph in 11.7 secs
Economy: 52.3mpg (combined)
CO<sub>2</sub> Rating: 123g/km

PRICE from £13,260 on the road

distinctive character. There have been big changes inside the Yaris, too. Aside from the noticeable uplift in quality – darker plastics, increased use of chrome trim and the plush-looking seats – the main change has seen the instruments move from the central position back to the traditional location behind the steering wheel.

The sweeping fascia design also incorporates a new touchscreen audio interface. A cost upgrade to a sat-nav feature is available, while the usual MP3 and Bluetooth interfaces are also present.

And it's these convenience features that Toyota hopes will help tempt buyers, as they often remain the preserve of more expensive models.

One thing that does continue to shrink is engine capacity. As the race to deliver a more economical ownership experience increases, car makers are offering smaller capacity engines with power outputs rivalling that of something much larger from only a few years ago.

A classic example is Toyota's 1.0-litre, three-cylinder petrol engine. It may produce only 68bhp, but its 58.9mpg figure and 111g/km CO<sub>2</sub> rating should prove attractive to predominately urban-centric drivers. It's certainly a willing unit and one that never feels out of its depth around town. Step up to the volume-selling 1.33-litre model and its 98bhp offers drivers more flexibility when taking extended journeys outside the city limits. Predictably, there's more power on tap for overtaking and a more relaxed cruising ability, while its 52.3mpg and 123g/km CO<sub>2</sub> rating is a happy compromise given its enhanced flexibility. Until the petrol-electric hybrid variant arrives in 2012, the Yaris range is rounded off by a 1.4-litre diesel unit boasting 89bhp, a good slug of torque and, crucially, 72.4mpg and 104g/km CO<sub>2</sub>. Regular long distance drivers are likely to find this combination more to their liking and the standard fit six-speed manual gearbox (the same as in the 1.33 petrol variant) helps deliver a relaxed and frugal high speed cruising experience.

A continuously variable transmission is clearly aimed at urban motorists and can help reduce emissions when fitted to the 1.33 petrol motor. Road manners and refinement are important issues for Toyota buyers and this latest Yaris isn't short of either. The company's desire to attract downsizers used to more luxurious cars is one reason, but the motivation also stems from the need to increase the car's 'value proposition' as the executives put it.

The car's seven airbags plus comprehensive electronic stability controls, spacious cabin, generous levels of standard kit across four trim levels, the choice of three or five doors and modest running costs all contribute towards the car's appeal. Factor in a five-year warranty and it's easy to see why buyers using their own money would feel confident spending it in a Toyota dealership.

Recent years have seen the supermini sector become a hotbed of competition. While some rival cars will better entertain keen drivers, Toyota has chosen to focus on the tangible benefits of ownership with its latest Yaris.

If you value solid construction, generous equipment levels, low running costs, cabin space and the reassurance of a long warranty, the Yaris could be for you.

A person wearing a blue long-sleeved shirt and white gloves holds a tablet device. The screen of the tablet shows a view of the interior of a car, specifically the front passenger side. In the background, a red Honda Fit hatchback is parked on a white surface. To the right of the car is a black service bay with horizontal stripes and the Honda logo on the door. INJURED: Colchester United star Tom Bender (S)

Colchester star left hospitalised

PROFESSIONAL footballer Tom Bender is recovering in hospital after suffering a head injury that forced a cup match between Accrington Stanley and Tranmere Rovers to be abandoned on Tuesday.

The 18-year-old defender, who is from Harlow, was knocked out in a collision with two other players in the Johnstone's Paint Trophy tie.

Bender is on a season-long loan from Colchester United.

He was treated for 30 minutes on the pitch, with players ushered away as he was given oxygen and put on a drip.

Bender regained consciousness in hospital and has been diagnosed with severe concussion.

Tranmere were leading 2-1 in the second-round match when Bender was injured in the 39th minute after colliding with Accrington goalkeeper Ian Dunbavin and Tranmere's Lucas Atkins.

Players were sent to the dressing room while he was treated on the pitch before the match was abandoned.

The Wales U-21 international was taken to the Royal Blackburn Hospital where he underwent a brain scan.

Accrington chief executive Rob Heys told BBC Sport: "Both sets of players were shaken by the incident, hence why we took the decision to call the game off. It's only a natural reaction when you see a player stay down for so long."

"Tom is now awake, but he doesn't remember anything that happened during the game."

Bender made his U's senior debut on September 19, 2009 in a 2-0 win against Hartlepool.

He is the second youngest player ever to represent Colchester at 16 years and 243 days.

He only recently moved to Colchester from his Harlow family home.

Perry good win!

PERRY Rowan sealed a convincing win at the Southend-on-Sea Young Athletes (under 15) 3km Road Race on Sunday.

The 14-year-old Burnt Mill pupil clocked 9 minutes and 50 seconds, after finishing third last year.

Canaan Solomon (12), a Mark Hall pupil, was 5th in 10.34.

Mark Hall School-mate Jodie Ratcliff (12), was 16th and 8th girl (12.16).

Harlow AC U-11s girls Town Park 1.9km race results: 1st Amy Whyte (8.05); 2nd Lauren Barker (8.07); 3rd Molly Gardner (8.16).

Triumph for young racer in karting champ

TEENAGE motor-racer Matthew Hayden continued his progress with victory in round five of a summer karting championship at the challenging Buckmore Park circuit near Rochester, Kent.

With the format at Buckmore more in line with F1 it helps to get a good qualifying time.

The Harlow 10-year-old managed this by qualifying on the grid in third from heat 1, behind poleman and Rye House team-mate Rory Smith.

After a five-kart tussle, Matthew went on to finish first.

Starting on pole for the pre-final, things did not go Matthew's way; he got hit from behind going into the first hairpin and dropped down to 9th place before a determined effort saw him climb back to finish 5th.

Starting the final race 5th on the grid and his team mate (Rory Smith) beside him in 6th, Matthew required a near perfect race to try and claim the win.

TRIUMPH: Matthew Hayden on the podium (S)

After a scrappy start he found himself down to 6th.

A brave manoeuvre at a hairpin allowed him to move up to second.

At the tight bottom right hand bend, he made a pass on the inside of race leader Jonathon Wilkes (Buckmore Park) pushing him wide. Snatching first, this move also allowed Rory to take second place.

They both drove a faultless last lap to take a one-two for the Hoddesdon club.

Matthew, a pupil at Pear Tree Mead School in Harlow, now stands 7th in the Buckmore Park Championship.

His father Robert explained: "Being only 10 means that Matt has got another two years in the Honda Cadet Class. With the standard of racing he is already at, this will hopefully mean that he can improve race after race and his results will get better and better. Hopefully if we can get sponsorship, next season Matt can be entered into the Super 1 Series which is the National Championships for kart racers."

Veteran prize for Solomons

RICHARD Solomons won the veteran 60 prize at the Bupa Great Edinburgh 10K run.

The Harlow Running Club member finished in 252nd position out of 870 runners in 42 minutes 31 seconds.

Harlow's Rob Lowe finished in a superb 4th place (40.07) out of 173 finishers in the Maudens 10K, near Bishop's Stortford.

Meanwhile at the Southend 10K, John Tennant finished 103rd out of 1,332 finishers and 1st Vet 60 in 41.44.

At London's Serpentine 5K, Steve Murtagh was 3rd out of 162 finishers and 1st Vet 40 in an excellent 17.02, just three seconds outside his PB and HRC Vet 45 record.

Hammer' time

HARLOW Rugby Club's women's team suffered a 24-12 home loss to Hammersmith & Fulham in their first RFUW National Challenge division one (South East North) League game of the season.

The newly-promoted Rams dominated the scrums but struggled with the pace of their opponents in the hot conditions.

Sarah Stimpson scored Harlow's first try to open the scoring.

Leah Dixon touched down the second try and Rebecca Conway converted for 12-14.

A late converted try and a penalty put the game beyond them.

Web and flow

Rams keep up winning record

THE Rams kept their 100 per cent record intact in a very hard fought and close match with Newmarket on Saturday.

The Suffolk hosts certainly proved to be a much harder side than their position at the bottom of the table indicates.

In incredibly hot conditions, the hosts went in front on 17 minutes.

The Harlow forwards drove towards the line and hooker Stuart Wilkins got the touchdown.

Fly-half Michael Dobson kicked a difficult conversion near the touchline.

Newmarket 26, Harlow 31

RFU, division three north east

Close to the 25-minute mark the Rams extended their lead when full-back Rob Mackie cut inside his opposite number and touched down under the posts.

Again Dobson was on target and Harlow had a 14-0 lead.

Harlow added a third try on the half-hour mark. Number eight Paul Eynon picked up the ball and crashed through two defenders to touch down.

Dobson slotted the extra points for 21-0.

The hosts scored a converted try close to half-time.

Newmarket changed their tactics and drove at Harlow in the second half.

This paid dividends with two tries, but only one was converted.

From a penalty close to the hour, Dobson kicked for the corner. From the line-out, Harlow set up a very good driving maul and prop Danny Stonehouse went over for the try.

Dobson converted to ease the pressure.

Newmarket, however, hit back and one of their backs scored a converted try to make it 26-28.

Dobson slotted over a penalty to make it 31-26 with about 10 minutes to go.

Harlow defended strongly in the final minutes and come away with a win plus a bonus point for four tries.

Dobson's kicking proved crucial.

The Rams are second, level on points with leaders Holt.

Harlow play Holt away on October 22 in what already is emerging as a title crunch match.

HARLOW: Prindiville, Wilkins (Malia 74), Stonehouse, Twiner, Palmer (Hawkins 69), Roberts, M. Bower, Eynon, Woodington (Harron 74), Dobson, Grimley, Vanbeck, Bates, Kotze, Mackie.

Ladies' 9-goal romp

HARLOW Ladies got back to winning ways with an emphatic 9-2 win over Southend in the Essex League premier division on Saturday.

Four goals apiece from Emma Tweddle and Sonya Amos ensured Southend bore the brunt of Harlow's disappointment the previous week.

Tweddle fired home a fierce penalty corner from the top of the circle with seven minutes gone on the clock.

Amos doubled the scoreline three minutes later when Clair Atack's square ball was neatly tucked away at the near post by the Harlow centre-forward.

Tweddle grabbed her second of the game after 16 minutes.

Amos made it 4-0 on 23 minutes.

Southend pulled a goal back before the break.

Then visitors made it 4-2 early in the second half.

But Harlow bounced back and Tweddle completed her hat-trick on 42 minutes, with a low shot into the right corner.

Captain Carolyn Welsford set up Amos for her hat-trick on 55 minutes.

Tweddle and Amos grabbed goals seven and eight around the hour mark, leaving just enough time for Atack to open her Harlow account two minutes before the final whistle.

Her run and shot went unopposed to put the icing on a 9-2 win.

HARLOW: Braithwaite, Shearman, Trimble, Douglas, Spencer, Tweddle, Welsford, Esterhuyse, Byers, Amos, Atack.

Victory at new home

LIFE at their new home at Leventhorpe School began with an impressive 2-0 victory for Harlow against Wapping V in the East Men's Hockey League division four south east.

Harlow started well and a mazy run from Craig Cholerton almost broke the deadlock after 10 minutes; his shot superbly tipped away by the Wapping goalkeeper.

Harlow were awarded a penalty corner on the half-hour mark, but James Smith's shot was brilliantly saved by the Wapping custodian.

The hosts' frustration boiled over five minutes into the second half when Joe Symonds was sent to the sin-bin for 10 minutes for dissent.

Just as Symonds returned, Ali Castle was sin-binned in the 50th minute for dissent.

Cholerton made the most of the gaps and after a pass from captain Luke Krzosa in the 52nd minute, he made his way past numerous defenders and fired a shot low across the goalkeeper to break the deadlock.

Cholerton was at the heart of Harlow's second goal. He picked out centre-forward Andy Boughtwood who let the ball run across his body and tucked a neat reverse stick sweep into the goal.

HARLOW: Hastler, Castle, Plumridge, Krzosa, Grace, Symonds, Light, Smith, Munro, Cholerton, Boughtwood.

● HARLOW coach Bob Gotobed was an emergency keeper for Harlow II, but endured a day to forget as his side lost 6-1 at Redbridge in division six south east.

Gotobed had to pick the ball out of the net three times in the first eight minutes!

Five-nil down at half-time, the visitors gained a consolation through Cyrus Mace.

Defeat in opener

THE new campaign got off to a disappointing start as Harlow Hawks went down 58-69 at home to Bedford Bulls in the Herts County Basketball League division one.

Simon Atkinson benefited with six early points and was backed up by Nick Moss adding five as Hawks jumped to a 13-2 lead.

Hawks took the first quarter 16-11.

Chris Jackson and Joe Taffe-Atkins came on for their Harlow first team debuts in the second quarter.

Harlow struggled and Bedford were 27-23 behind at the end of this quarter.

The second half started poorly for Hawks who trailed 40-32 at the end of the third quarter.

Dave Spashett scored a trademark three-pointer, but the hosts could not capitalise.

A late surge saw Zaf Niaz, player-coach Shab Niaz and new boy Taffe-Atkins knock down shots from beyond the arc to give Hawks a glimmer of hope.

But four missed free-throws at the end saw the game slip out of their reach.

Bedford sunk their free-throws and closed the game out, winning 69-58.

Coach Niaz said: "It was a disappointing loss especially after the way that we had started. It would be easy to reflect on just the negatives because we lost, but we have new players in our unit, which will take a few games to settle in."

Harlow host Ware in their opening National Founders Cup group game this Saturday (7.25pm tip-off at Harlow Leisurezone). HARLOW HAWKS: S. Niaz (19pts), S. Atkinson (14pts), L. Atkinson (9pts), Moss (5pts), Taffe-Atkins (5pts), Spashett (3pts), Z. Niaz (3pts), Jones, Jackson, Morris.

Frontiers are hit for six!

FRONTIERS were knocked off top spot after a crushing 6-1 home loss against North Weald.

Matt Clarke was the four-goal hero for the visitors, who also netted via George Attrill and Scott Sergeant. A. Ifeoluona replied for Frontiers.

Sheering moved to second after a 2-1 home defeat of Heath Rovers reserves in the premier division.

Dave Hardy and Simon Cumins struck for Sheering.

Hertfordshire Rangers thrashed Birchanger 6-0. Mark Barrow hit a hat-trick for the hosts, while Adam Stoneham, Richard Jones and Jason Whiting were also on target.

In division one, Hatfield Heath defeated North Weald 2-0. Spencer Bull and Liam Brown netted for the hosts.

Other results: prem div: Albury v Langley Rangers (w/o Albury unable to raise a team).

He has been recommended to Jeff Wood, who is Norwich City's goalkeeping coach.

Wood told the Star: "He looks comfortable. He has great hands and has good feet, which are good foundations for a keeper. Steve Blaney [head of Norwich City's development centre in Harlow] saw him play."

Rosie Cook, Rees' mother, said: "I am over the moon and thrilled. I know he's decent. He has been playing football since he was five. "He has played for a Harlow Town team and also played for the Ipswich Academy against them."

Leventhorpe School student Perry Spencer can play on the right side of midfield or as a winger.

Perry, who has just turned 16, is suffering from a sore Achilles but when he has recovered, is set to start training with nPower League One club Leyton Orient.

"In the game at Paringdon, Perry was the best player on the pitch. He has a very good attitude," said Roget.

The session at the Southern Way venue was attended by scouts from five league clubs.

Brown source of hope for Hawks

Harlow Tn 3,
Soham Town Rangers 1
Ryman League, div one north

By ALAN SCOTT

THE appearance of influential midfielder Danny Brown will no doubt have buoyed Hawks' fans even more than the result as Harlow Town secured three valuable points and ended a run of two successive losses.

The skipper has missed the last five games with an ankle injury.

Although his ankle was heavily strapped up, his return will be a huge plus in the Hawks' engine room.

Harlow persisted with the 3-4-3 formation which they first tried against Tilbury four days earlier when the side took on Soham Town Rangers on Saturday.

With the right-footed Luke Marshall looking dangerous on the left side of three in attack, Hawks boss Danny Chapman may well have stumbled on a formation that could reignite their faltering title bid.

Harlow had gone behind after only six minutes when a quick ball forward caught out the home defence.

Piers Wixon smashed the penalty into the bottom right corner to make it 1-1. Harlow started the sec-

Bowen jinx strikes again!

LUKE Bowen is recovering well after a horrific accident during Sunday's Premier League match against Scunthorpe saw his bike land on top of him.

The nasty spill happened on the second bend of Heat 3. The Harlow-based rider clipped rival Thomas Jorgensen's rear wheel while coming out of a corner, with his machine flying into the air and coming down on him.

The meeting was held up for almost an hour while Bowen received treatment and an ambulance transfer to the Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow was arranged.

In addition to the bruising to his chest caused when he was hit by his bike and second degree concussion, X-rays revealed Bowen had suffered at least two broken bones in a foot.

However, the 25-year-old was released on Tuesday, with doctors saying that an operation wasn't necessary. While Bowen will be unable to ride for the rest of the season, he is expected to make a full recovery.

"He's one of the unluckiest speedway riders I've ever known," Rockets promoter Len Silver told the Star.

"Luke broke his arm last season and has broke a leg a couple of time, but nine times out of 10 it's not his fault."

"We're all relieved it's not too serious. He was really finding his form, and I'm sure he'll be back with a bang ready for the start of the next campaign."

Silver was facing having half of his team missing for this Sunday's home match against high-flying Scunthorpe (2pm start) including skipper Chris Neath (concussion), Jordan Frampton (shoulder and wrist) and James Brundle (wrist) – but all three could now take their place in the line-up.

"There's a possibility Chris might be back, he's due to see the doctor again today [Wednesday] about his concussion and I'm hoping he'll get the all clear."

"Jordan's okay and Brundle supposedly had a broken wrist, but that was completely misdiagnosed."

Bowen's injury marred a passionate and thrilling victory by the Rockets over a strong Scunthorpe outfit.

The hosts banded together in true backs-to-the-wall fashion, with Tyson Nelson once again the clear man-of-the-match.

The Aussie teenager blasted to three full wins – plus one paid success – in a tremendous paid 17 haul that was topped off by a spectacular Heat 4 in which he worked his way past Carl Wilkinson on the second lap and then stalked leader Steve Worrall before driving inside, coming off the last bend to claim victory.

The breathtaking reception received excellent support from Ritchie Hawkins, who recovered from an opening race duck to reel off successive wins in a paid 10 tally.

Ben Morley (17) who started the season as a Rocket before losing his place to Brundle, showed that he has regained his confidence in the National League with Hackney by delivering a vital paid seven.

The Rockets were behind only briefly – and led by 10 points at one stage.

Rye House scorers: Hawkins 9+1 (from five rides); Bowen 0 (1); Boxall 9+3 (6); Sam Masters (guest) 9 (6); Morley (guest) 5+2 (5); Nelson 15+2 (7).

U's snap up starlet

THE pool of football talent in Harlow has once again bubbled to the surface with two youngsters pursuing deals at Football League clubs.

Fifteen-year-old Alex Luque had attracted interest from nPower Championship high-flyers Southampton.

However, he has now started training with League One Colchester United (pictured left with his new U's shirt).

Central defender Alex, a student at St Mark's in Harlow, made the step-up after attending a six-week training session at Mark Hall School run by former Southend United player Leo Roget.

Roget, who was captain at Harlow Town last season, said: "Through the course Alex showed he was the best player and he also has a great attitude. He is very good in his reading of the game."

Roget was equally impressed with another Harlow-based youngster who attended his six-week training
